The Academic Job Search:
Writing an Effective Teaching Philosophy Statement with the McGraw Center

Wednesday, August 13
3 to 4 p.m.
Career Services

A teaching statement has become an important element in searches for academic jobs as more than half of new positions request them from applicants. This workshop will introduce participants to the concept of the teaching statement and discuss how search committees read them. Activities in the session will enable participants to begin defining the key aspects of their own statements by drawing on their teaching experiences and goals. Kindly RSVP at http://bit.ly/1AzcWPu.