Create Your Individualized Development Plan for Graduate Students and Postdocs

Monday, May 11 • 10 to 11 a.m.
Edward C. Taylor Auditorium, Frick Laboratory.

Federal grant sponsors and many external fellowship organizations now require supported students and postdocs to have an Individual Development Plan (IDP). In response to this policy, all students and postdocs in the Department of Chemistry are now required to develop and share their IDP with their advisor. In this workshop exclusively for Chemistry, you will learn the framework and how to create your unique IDP while learning more about yourself and the opportunities and resources that will help you grow now and into your future career.
